The Silver State Classic Challenge has been completed for 2008. Nobody was able to claim the $5,000,000 purse from Mad Dog by finishing the race. However, Dan Courtney gave it a great try in his full race prepared Pantera. Both Panteras started the race this year, being the first 150 class to grid. Mad Dog was first off the line, with Dan leaving 60 seconds later. Mad Dog's Pantera ran beautifully the entire race and he ended up averaging just over 150 mph and point three seconds over time. That however wasn't good enough as the winning times were in the point one second range. Even so, it was a great finish to a season plagued with a bad clutch and a blown off deck lid.

An honorable mention goes to Scott Couchman for putting in a great effort but failing tire tech at the last minute. Although Scott was not able to race, he is committed to coming back next year and giving it another go. We look forward to both him and Dan, as well as many others at next years Nevada Open Road Challenge.
