

Mike Trusty writes in to TPR about his recent Road America experience with his GT40:

We were put in a gt40 exhibition race on Saturday which included the Lemans winning GT40 of '66 as well as several world champion drivers and cars. The car went like stink. Somewhere in the 170 to 180 range down the front straight. They brought all of the post historic cars in after two laps except Jack and I. We were out there with the best of the best for the full 35 minutes. Getting the checkered flag and thumbs up from the corner workers was an experience that I will remember for life.
